Session Overview

Each year billions of dollars of health care fraud are committed in the United States through scams and criminal activities. This creates terrible hardships, especially among the elderly and most vulnerable population. Fighting such fraud takes tremendous effort and coordination. To address this problem, federal and state partners in the justice system are working hard to prosecute offenders. This session offers an inside view of such efforts from the professionals who undertake the prosecutions. In this session you will learn about:

- How health care fraud in nursing homes and hospitals in New York State were recently detected and successfully prosecuted.
- The scope and type of fraud that is being committed, and the approaches used to collect information and prosecute the wrongdoers.
- Efforts underway at the federal, state, and local levels to detect, prevent and prosecute health care fraud.
- Steps that Medicare beneficiaries, Medicaid recipients, and families can take to prevent, detect and report fraud.
